“Man often becomes what he believes himself to be. If I keep on saying to myself that I cannot do a certain thing, it is possible that I may end by really becoming incapable of doing it. On the contrary, if I have the belief that I can do it, I shall surely acquire the capacity to do it even if I may not have it at the beginning.” – Mahatma Gandhi

C L A R I S S A ACEVEDO

Clarissa Acevedo has been in Beta Club, Technology Student Association (TSA), and JROTC where she achieved the rank of second lieutenant. With JROTC, she received Personal Appearance Award, LET Service Award, Flag Detail Award, and a JROTC Medal from the National Society Daughters of American Revolution for academic excellence, dependability, leadership, and military leadership. She also obtained certification in Microsoft Excel.

Clarissa is the daughter of Javier Acevedo and Lorenza Yanez. She has many plans after high school including traveling to Mexico to visit family members that she hasn't seen (only talked to) in her life as well as to receive medical treatment and also to pursue a nursing degree at Georgia Southern University (GSU).

A L E X A N D E R ARCHIE

Alexander has been a member of FBLA, TSA, FFA throughout high school and was on the track team his junior year. Academically, he completed pathways in Art, Business Technology, and Food, Nutrition, and Wellness. With these completions, he received certification for ServSafe as well as Microsoft Excel, and PowerPoint. He was chosen by his fellow classmates as Friendliest in the senior class.

Alexander plans to pursue his dream to become a lawyer by first receiving an associate degree in criminal justice and then continuing at either University of Georgia School of Law or Savannah Law School. His parents are Alexander and Shelia Archie.

CHRISTIAN “COLE” BELL

While at SHS, Cole has participated in many extra-curricular activities, including four years of football, two of which he served as the kicker, and four years of soccer, two of which he was a team captain. In addition, he was a 4-H member, participating in modified trap, earning district titles in his age group for two years. He has also been an active club member of FBLA, 4-H, TSA, and FFA.

Boslie Belle Booth, daughter of Jamie and Barry Booth, plans to attend East Georgia State College for one year and later transfer to the University of Georgia to pursue a degree in speech therapy.

- Words of wisdom for those still in school: Work hard, strive to always do the right thing, and be the best person that you can be.

Hannah Jackson, daughter of Roslyn Banks-Jackson and Timothy Jackson, plans to attend the University of Georgia, majoring in dietetics.

- Words of wisdom for those still in school: Work hard and take school seriously, but know when to let go. You don't get this (Continued on page 24) time back, so learn to find your balance.

Maci Olivia Nease, daughter of Jeremy and Heather Nease, plans to attend the University of Georgia to pursue a degree in veterinary medicine.
• Words of wisdom for those still in school: You may not end up where you thought you were going, but you will always end up where you are meant to be.
Skylar Breanna Sikes, daughter of Dwayne and Beth Sikes, plans to attend Southeastern Technical College in Vidalia to pursue a degree in dentistry.
• Words of wisdom

for those still in school: Everything worth doing takes time and effort. If you want to go somewhere meaningful and rewarding in life, there are no shortcuts. This applies to grades, relationships, career, character, and more.
Tatum Caroline Taylor, daughter of Stephen and Tori Taylor, plans to attend the University of Georgia following high school graduation.
• Words of wisdom for those still in school: Keep pushing forward. Don't be afraid to reach out and ask for help. Accept defeat gracefully and victory with humility. Be kind to everyone. Be true to yourself.

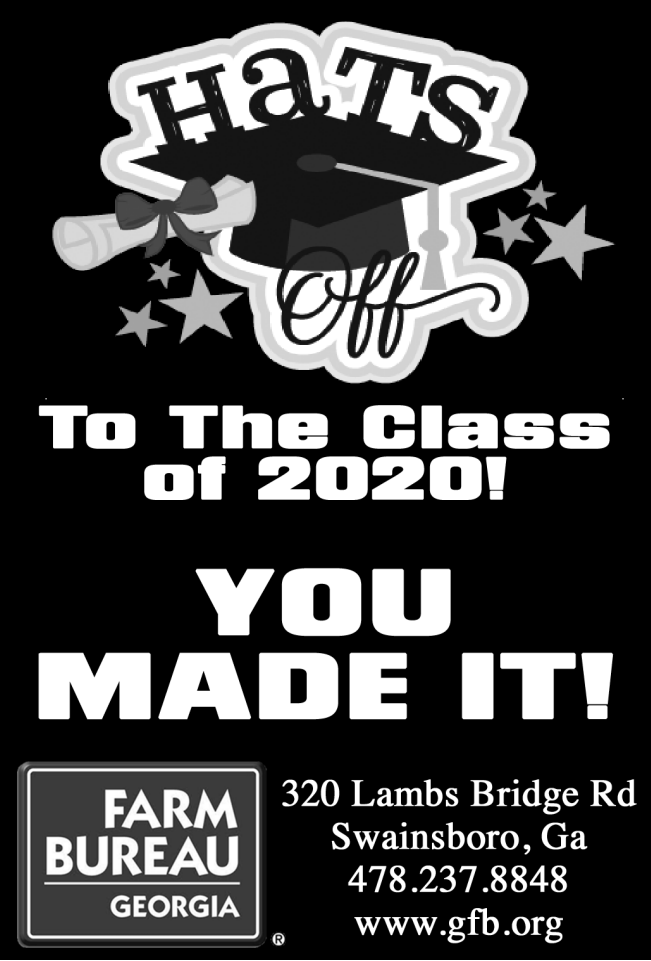

Think about the legacy you will leave. Always put your trust in God, for He will not forsake you.
Ethan Sutton Wells, son of Michael and Rachel Wells and Joe and Suzanne English, plans to attend The University of Georgia to pursue a degree in journalism and media entertainment.
• Words of wisdom for those still in school: To all the underclassmen, all I can say is enjoy every second of high school. Stay involved in as much as you can and leave no room for regrets because when people tell you it goes by fast, they aren't lying.

Last wills and testaments from DEA graduates

I, Boslie Booth, being of honest mind and heavenly body hereby leave the following:
Banks Booth: hunt brother's pizza, rap songs, and the job of bathing the dog every Sunday
Chloe Calhoun: my amazing cheer skills, rides home after away games, and endless amounts of coffee
Jaylin Hall and Alivia Fortner: chicken feet
Grace Catherine Hood: my aggressiveness in soccer & my lucky headband
I, Skylar Sikes, being of honest mind and heavenly body hereby leave the following:
Wanna and Bailey: My friendship
Coach Inman: Chats in class
Underclassmen: Quizlet
All of my gratitude: My parents
All of my love: My Nana and Papa
I, Maci Nease, being of my talkative and tardy self, leave the following:
Hadden and Banks: money problems

Grace Catherine: long dollar general trips, my silver hoops, pinky power, red sharpies and pads, Mexican truck, unpaid therapy sessions, and I hope you become the (Salad) Victorian Chloe: renegade, red sharpies and pads, pinky power, sonic drive-thru, Mr. R, and unlimited unpaid therapy sessions
Molly: striker position and cuties
Rylie Rowland: Llama and "that's 1, 2 more strikes and you're out"
Liz: BA track meets, homeless homeschooled uniforms, ECI, dominate and devastate, and our meet ups in Mr. Darrell's after lunch
Emma and Peyton: karaoke nights
Coach Inman: "on a scale of 1-10"
Cheer Team: Lets go whiteee, Go Eags, and my bus ride "potty breaks"
And to the class of 2020, I hope you never forget the memory of Loves, Scoops, and flarp.
I, Ethan Wells, being a clever mind and athletic body, leave the following: I leave the football team all the front squats and Indian drills Coach Inman could imagine.

I leave Banks my QB1 spot and my locker
I leave Dane the quarterback Leroy
I leave Racyn the plant
I leave Jesse his traps
I leave Ace three hundred pounds on the bar
I leave Griner the 75 pound gators
I would leave Brayden pain, but it's overrated, so I'll leave him hang cleans instead
Lastly, I leave DEA, as a whole, a big thank you for an amazing last 14 years
I, Hannah Jackson, of scattered mind and tired body leave the following:
Mrs. Amanda and Mrs. Whitney: all the bags of apples I took from the sack lunches
The REAL cool cool cools to Kaitlyn Reiningner
And everything I care about to anyone who can find it

EGSC hosts virtual spring commencement ceremony

East Georgia State College held its spring commencement ceremony virtually on Friday, May 8, 2020 at 6 p.m. The college was unable to hold the ceremony in person due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Candidates for the 2020 Spring Graduation had the option to participate in the virtual graduation, and they have been asked to come back in the fall to take part in the fall commencement ceremony. For the virtual ceremony, the graduating candidates were asked to provide photos of themselves to be included in the video when their name was called. The ceremony also featured special messages from student and guest speakers who were scheduled to speak at the graduation. The president of EGSC, Dr. Bob Boehmer, welcomed all viewers to the virtual ceremony.

“The COVID-19 pandemic prevents us from sharing this special event with you in person,” said Dr. Boehmer. “We trust, however, that this virtual celebration will clearly and unequivocally convey to you how important each one of (Continued on page 27) these Spring 2020 graduates is to us, how much we respect their achievements, and how much admiration we have for their family and friends for the support provided over the course of a lifetime.”

He continued by congratulating the graduates on their hard work. “Graduates, as this ceremony begins, please remember that few days as special as this take place in one’s lifetime. As we begin this momentous ceremony, breathe and enjoy this moment you have earned. Quickly recall a special learning moment at East Georgia State College, smile and commit that moment to memory. Silently commit to say ‘thank you’ today to all those who helped you achieve your dreams.”

Dr. Boehmer’s welcome was followed by Morgan Bryant and Megan Bryant, who performed “God Bless America.” The reflection was given by graduating student Susanna Hall. The alumni speaker for the ceremony was Deion Craig. He spoke to graduates about this different, but special time in their life. “You guys are a different group of graduates. You guys have been through something not a lot of people have been through in the past four to five, six, seven, eight years and I think that is something to be said. You guys have a different level of perseverance and just will to get this done. I just want you all to realize that and how special you are,” said Craig.

The student speaker for the ceremony was Bruce

Bass, Jr. Col. George Fredrick delivered special congratulatory remarks to the students followed by Dr. Sandra Sharman, the Vice President of Academic and Student Affairs, who presented the degrees to the graduating students.

The full list of graduates will be available at a later date. The ceremony can be viewed on the EGSC website at <http://www.ega.edu/2020-Spring-Commencement>.

The last day of school

by RONNIE JOHNSON
It seems our dogs knew it was the last day of school because they were waiting for us at the mailbox. As we climbed from the school bus, Buster and Lou Ann almost knocked us down.
We raced toward the house with the exuberant dogs close behind. The yearly ritual was always the same: off came the shoes and socks, then the school clothes were exchanged for summer shorts and tee shirts.
The fullness of nature lay just outside our front door. There were tall trees to climb and vines as thick as Tarzan’s wrist to swing on. There were deep woods and forests to explore, where birds, rabbits, squirrels, and wildlife were plentiful. Sweet plums and bullaces grew in secret places were only my sisters and I were aware of.
Mama and Daddy never knew the exact whereabouts of where we were during the summer, but they knew we were safe in the arms of Mother Nature, and there was little crime back then.

My small sisters built playhouses with bottles, bricks, and anything that would serve as furniture or furnishings for their make-believe houses. They often argued over who had the most beautiful make-believe home. It was all about fantasy and play-acting with their eyes, hearts, and minds pointing toward reality and the future.
We walked barefoot over freshly plowed fields. We noticed the soil was cooler near the tree-lined forest than in the middle of a cotton field where the sun reigned supreme.
In the woods behind our house, we caught red-fin pike fish by hand when the creek dried up. We also took our stubby fishing poles to the maple hole to see if the fish were biting. Sometimes we lost our patience and jumped into the water, still wearing our clothes.

Nobody carried a watch because someone was nearby who always knew the time by studying the position of the sun overhead. You never heard of a person who had a timely appointment to keep because they’d say, “I’ll be there when I get there.”
Summertime was slow and easy, reflecting our speech, southern traditions, and laidback lifestyle. We never got in a hurry, unlike our northern neighbors who are the so-called hares who finish the race first. We are the slow turtles who amble along enjoying the trip, knowing we’ll reach our destination with time to spare.
There were always different sizes of watermelons on front porches during the summer. Women sat in rockers and porch swings, shelling peas and butterbeans for canning or freezing.

Chickens ruffled their feathers in dry pockets of dust in the front yard, and the dogs stayed under the cool mulberry trees, seeking a respite from the intense Georgia heat.
There would be good times ahead. The neighbors would come for a peanut boiling on Saturday night while listening to the Grand Ole Opry from Nashville, and all the children would argue who would be the first one to sit on Daddy’s ice cream churn on Sunday afternoon. Mama would decide the flavor of the ice cream—vanilla, peach, strawberry, or chocolate.
As night fell, the children chased fireflies in the front yard. Rain fell on the tin roof after midnight while God watched over us.

Best Wishes to the class of 2020!
