The Original Uber: drivers wanted

By Alyssa Andrews
alyssaa@marshfieldmail.com

As many districts celebrate the last week of school, they also look at proactive approaches to ensure the 2022-'23 school year runs smoothly. One hurdle in particular is being addressed now: finding bus drivers.

Bus driver shortages are having a rippling effect on schools, students and families across the country - especially in Webster County. The shortage has resulted in longer routes for students and double routes for drivers. To combat the shortages, district's have come up with several incentives and creative ways to band-aid the problem.

Marshfield's school district has responded by offering paid training and the opportunity to earn extra income before and after school. A number of teachers and paraprofessionals have taken advantage of the opportunity; including Assistant Superintendent Rocky Valentine.

"I tell people all the time, it is probably my favorite thing. Getting to jump in and drive across the district, it's beautiful in our area, and working with the students is great," explained Valentine. "But the district has consolidated some routes, resulting in our routes to be little bit longer and I know nobody enjoys that. We don't love that either, but that was not a financial decision... it's been a limited staffing situation."

The Marshfield district requires its drivers to span 1,300 miles every school day; with 31 routes in the morning and 32 in the afternoon. Equally so, the Fordland's district puts on quite the balancing act as well, juggling multiple drivers throughout the day.

Marshfield predator turns himself in for slew of crimes

By Shelby Atkison
shelbya@marshfieldmail.com

A Marshfield man has been charged with promoting child pornography in the first degree, a Class B felony punishable by up to 15 years in jail. The discovery was made during an extensive background check performed by a local church where the accused was seeking employment.

Nicholas Ryan Wallace, 32, walked into the Webster County Sheriff's Office on Thursday, May 5 and turned himself in for having child pornography stored on his phone. According to the probable cause statement, Wallace waived his rights and confessed to the crimes during an interview with a Webster County deputy.

"The local church ministers handled it pretty much exactly like you would want to see anybody handle it," said Sheriff Royce Cole. "They discovered something that wasn't right and went to this person saying it's probably the right thing to do to go turn yourself in and that's exactly what he did. He confessed to a whole host of crimes, some of which are obviously very serious."

Financial excellence for city of Marshfield

By Amber Brand
amberb@marshfieldmail.com

It takes a lot of people performing different jobs day in and day out for a city to work seamlessly. Most of the time city employees do their jobs without much acknowledgment or spotlight because as long as your water is running, there isn't much to worry about. But, there is more to keeping a city running smoothly than running water and it starts with the budget.

This past week the City of Marshfield received a Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting award from the GFOA (Government Finance Officers Association) "They (GFOA) takes the financial statements from the city, audited or otherwise, and they review the information," explained Monica Robinson, Finance Director for the City of Marshfield. "It's not to access the financial health of our city, but it is to ensure that any user, citizen of Marshfield, etc. can pick up our financial statements and access our financial health because our statements are formatted consistently with government accounting standards."

According the Mayor of Marshfield, Natalie McNish, receiving this award is "a testament to the hard work of Monica Robinson". Monica is essentially responsible for balancing the city checkbook. "I am responsible for the general ledger for the city, keeping expenses and revenues in the correct accounts, bank reconciliation, balancing accounts, preparing financial statements, assist our auditor in providing documentation and preparing reports for our Mayor and board of alderman," shared Monica about her responsibilities to keep our city running not just smoothly, but fiscally responsibly.

"If you have questions ask them, its (the budge and reports) are there for everyone, our citizens, to review. I'm happy to talk to you about them, the city administrator, the mayor and the board of aldermen are all happy to answer questions," Monica explained when asked to share advice about the finances. To review the city's budget visit: <https://marshfieldmo.gov/city/departments/finance>.

Monica has worked for the City of Marshfield since 2013 and served as the Financial Director since 2018. The city has received the Certificate of Achievement award for four years in a row now. When Monica isn't at work you can find her outside, "I like doing CrossFit, kayaking, reading, gardening or anything outdoors," she laughed.

National Drug Court Month - Marshfield woman "Brake"s the chains of addiction

By Alyssa Andrews
alyssaa@marshfieldmail.com

May welcomes the 30th anniversary of National Drug Court Month; a month-long celebration recognizing the lifesaving work, education and success found throughout the program. More than 150,000 individuals battling addiction have received life-saving treatment from Drug Court, including folks here in Webster County.

The program is not new to our area, in fact almost 20 years ago, Judge Ken Thompson, Gail Barnekow, Dr. Ward Lawson, Brad Stocker, and other forward-thinking citizens helped open the doors of the Webster County Drug Court.

Doors Amanda Brake has walked through countless times during her battle with addiction.

"From the time I was 18, a boyfriend of mine introduced me into meth... from then on it was just every now and then," explained Brake. "I'd use for several months and end up committing crime after crime. It'd be three to five months, maybe, and I'd end up back in jail every time. They sent me to prison four times, county jail countless times. This last time, I actually escaped jail."

Webster County Health Unit campaigns for safe drug disposal

By Alyssa Andrews
alyssaa@marshfieldmail.com

As of 2020, the #1 leading cause of deaths for ages 18-44 in Missouri is drug overdose. A serious number for a serious and on-going epidemic in the state of Missouri. That statistic is one of hundreds shared on the Missouri Department of Health & Senior Services, reaffirming the fact that drugs affect us all. Many of these drug-related deaths include opioid class drugs such as heroin, fentanyl, methadone, morphine, oxycodone and many other prescription and non-prescription pain relievers.

Pioneer Days

Shook's fourth grade students celebrated the 31st annual "Pioneer Days" at Shook Elementary on Friday. On May 13, over 200 students dressed as pioneers or Native Americans and presented a program to families and friends featuring songs, dance speaking parts and musical instruments as they took visitors on an adventure through early Missouri history.

Classroom teachers, music, art and PE teachers all came together to present the program. The presentation closed with students all square dancing. Students filled the rest of their day with pioneer activities.

In 2018, Brake's nephew had been arrested and was in need of money. With the desire to help him, and a warrant out for her arrest, Brake turned her self in. However, once dressed out in the jail's jumpsuit she proceeded to escape through the elevator's doors at the Webster County Jail. Brake was apprehended two days later. Brake was facing the same "old" fate she always did, until both of her sisters joined her in jail on drug related charges.

That is when Brake made a plea to Webster County Prosecutor Ben Berkstresser to be accepted into Drug Court. The prosecuting attorney is generally referred to as the "gatekeeper" due to the fact they decide who gets an application to drug court. Berkstresser stated there were many factors that played a role in his decision.

"Amanda was a real tough sell to get into drug court because I'd known her since I became a practicing attorney in Marshfield. She went on a string of crimes that were very serious and showed just a general lack of remorse. When she escaped the jail, she had earned a 10-year sentence from the Department of Corrections," explained Berkstresser. "I was resolved. Her attorney was a public defender, by the name of Joe Porter and Joe begged for me to take an opportunity to speak to Amanda and so I did."

Prior to meeting with Berkstresser, Brake had been in jail for several months. Brake emphasized that her sisters needed someone to be an example for them and insisted that she wanted to change.

"I listened to her and I thought I'd give her a chance, but she'll have to do the work. When she got into the system and started treatment, it was amazing," shared Berkstresser. "She faced moments where things were real tough. She worked so hard and was diligent."

Berkstresser described himself as a "cheerleader" as Brake successfully navigated through Drug Court.

"Amanda has just a charismatic personality. She is very likable and I thought if she can get through this, potentially, her sobriety could have a ripple effect in her life and spread out through lives of lots of people; her children, siblings, and friends," said Berkstresser. "She has just a great impact on the whole community. I gave her a chance, which I didn't want to do, but I did. After that, I became just a little bit of a cheerleader. She's certainly somebody I'm very proud of because it would have been easy to take the prison sentence."

"It has saved my life. All credit goes to drug court," said Brake. "Drug court is an intense program. If people are looking for the easy way out better just go to prison because drug court is not it. I've been to prison, I've done that time and it is a cakewalk compared to drug court."

Brake attended numerous therapy sessions, drug court meetings, check-ins with her parole officers and more.

"They expect a lot and if you're in that program, it's because they see something in you and they believe in you," smiled Brake. "So, after 18 months I completed it. A lot of others don't complete it in 18 months, but I did. I went in there. I told them I was ready and I meant business. I put in 100% and just did everything they asked me to do... and I found solutions to have a more successful life, not only while you're in drug court, but after."

Now 39, over four years have passed since Brake's successful completion of Drug Court. Brake currently works as a Certified Nurse Assistant in a nursing facility near Buffalo, MO, but has plans to move back to Marshfield in the near future. The reason: she wants to vote in Webster County.

"I am fixing to move back and the reason is gonna sound crazy," laughed Brake. "I love my Webster County judges and prosecutors. I love all of them and so I want to vote. I've never been able to vote. When you're a felon, you can't do that. I recently got off felony probation for good, so I can vote now. I'm moving back here because I found out you have to register in the town you live in. I don't want to vote for people in Dallas County. I want to come back here to my hometown and support the very same people who supported me."

Brake's story is just one of the thousands of individual stories across the country that demonstrate why treatment courts are so critical in the effort to address addiction and related crime.

Round-Up: Refrigerators for Kings

By Amber Brand
amberg@marshfieldmail.com

In 2008, Gayle Savage had a vision of meeting a need for the residents and seniors in Seymour. "We provide food for the southern half of Webster County; Rogersville, Fordland, Seymour," explained Winona Owens, Administrator at Kings Food Pantry. "Gayle felt it was laid upon her heart to start food pantries and that's what she did. She did the paperwork and got it started and advocated for volunteers."

"It started way before any of us ever got here and several of our volunteers have been here from the beginning," reflected Owens. "They started out in the old school building in Seymour, the 'old rock building' and we've grown from there."

"We work with four different organizations to provide food," explained Owens. The largest of the four being the USDA and the CSFP (Commodities Supplemental Food Program). "The USDA allows us to provide food for about 204 households each month and the CSFP, a special program that is for people over 60, provides around 140-40 pound boxes of shelf stable food for seniors each month."

"I volunteered here at the end of 2019 and immediately after that COVID hit. We used to be set up to where people could come in and 'shop'. When COVID hit we couldn't do that anymore. We didn't know what it was going to look like going forward," reflected Owens. "Ozarks Food Harvest started sending tons of food out because they were getting a ton of food but it took a lot of management. Someone had to date it, put it away, figure out when it needs to go out. I enjoyed doing it and they (the rest of the volunteers) were like 'will you do it' and I was like SURE," laughed Owens.

"For a year and a half we didn't have any food expenses. Now we are getting back to what we refer to as 'pre-COVID'. We went from receiving 30 items (30 separate items), down to 5-10 maybe 15," Owens shared about the current status of incoming food. "I'm calling them (Ozarks Food Harvest) 'what do I do there is no food' and they say 'this is how it's going to be, this is what it looked like pre-COVID'. Food prices are going up, we are buying more food, and it's costing us more money," stated Owens.

With growth and an increase in need for food, the Webster Electric Round-Up grant opportunity couldn't have come at a better time. "We have what we call the refrigerator room, it holds 7-8 refrigerators that are at least 10 plus years old. Last summer, on the hottest days, they struggled to maintain temps. I told the board this was going to be a concern and since then we have lost one fridge," explained Owens. The Kings Food pantry applied for and received a grant from Webster Electric in the amount of $4,599 to purchase a refrigerator. "We are hoping the new three door fridge will not only reduce our electric usage but also increase the amount of space we have for food storage."

To combat the rising cost of food and the increase in food purchasing, the Kings Food Pantry has partnered with the Masons to have one of the Masons' famous "Trash Can Feeds". "They are cooking and providing everything for us. It's $10 per plate and everything will benefit the pantry," shared Owens. The event will be held at the Seymour Park on June 4th at 6:00 p.m. In addition to the Trash Can Feed, the city of Seymour is also hosting "Music in the Park" the same evening.

Distributions are on Thursdays; the first Thursday from 9 a.m.- 4 p.m., third Thursday 1:30-6 p.m., and the fourth Thursday from 9 a.m.- 4 p.m. The entire organization is completely volunteer run by about 15 people. The King's Food Pantry and Thrift store is now located at 732 S. Division St. Seymour, MO.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

By Amanda Stroup

There has been so much talk recently about JnL's restaurant closing its doors. I for one was shocked and saddened by the news.

This should be a real eye opener for all of us. Our community needs each other now more than ever. SUPPORT our small businesses! If a business you enjoy comes to mind, think about what it will be like when you see the "going out of business" sign.

Be kind and patient to the restaurants and businesses that make mistakes and take longer than usual!

Please think about what you say before you say it.

One bad review can break a small business, especially in times like these.

Negativity is usually heard louder than positivity.

We should always encourage, and root for the businesses in our community to improve!

If we have the opportunity to fill a need or be a blessing, we shouldn't pass it up. And likewise, don't be afraid to ask!

I have some of the very best customers in all of Marshfield. Without them I would not and will not stay in business.

I personally will try to be one of those customers to our other small businesses in our community. I hope several of you will join me.

To bring a little perspective, a $5 purchase by just one hundred people a week is an extra $500 a week. How many people do we have in our community? The answer is much larger than one hundred! Just remember even small things add up to big blessings.

If you don't have any extra money to spend, that's ok! There are SO many other ways to show support. Like and share on social media, comment, start conversations! Word of mouth is still the gold standard, so tell other people about the good things Marshfield has to offer!

I know gas prices are high, food prices are high, everything is going higher. Staff shortages are real.

While we may not have much control over these things at the moment... we do have control over how we think, how we treat others, and who we choose to support on the daily.

Choose to wake up happy, don't focus on what you cannot change and just tune out all the negative news. It's important to be informed...we need to be educated about the choices coming up this Fall. But we don't have to live consumed by the negativity. We can instead choose to make Marshfield an example of a community that fights together, and for each other. Let's be that example!

If you've read this far, thank you, go have a fantastic rest of your week and remember to smile at everyone you come across. It really is contagious!

Only in a small town

I walked into our local grocery store a while back slightly disheveled — my left trouser leg properly down over my boot and the other hiked up atop my right boot top.

I'd noticed it after climbing out of my truck, but paid little heed. It hardly seemed worth the effort to stop, stoop over and fix. But, as I walked to the back of the store and began perusing the meat case, a young lady came up behind me, bent over and straightened my errant pants leg. "Sorry," she said a mite nervously. "I just had to fix that."

A few steps behind, her husband stood grinning and slightly shaking his head, as I uttered a spontaneous "Thanks." I don't recall what he said, but his grin said something like: "God bless her; she's always taking care of somebody."

I just grinned back and thought to myself, "Only in a small town like Buffalo."

I didn't know the couple at all. They may have known me, but it didn't matter. They were just down-home, neighborly folks.

I suppose some folks — Easterners, maybe — might have been taken aback by an absolute stranger invading their "personal space." I wasn't. These weren't strangers at all, just neighbors I'd yet to know. I appreciated the fact that she cared enough to put my britches leg in its proper place. It's not everywhere a body would be comfortable doing such a thing; but towns like Buffalo are not "everywhere."

To borrow contemporary lingo, they're our "comfort zone."

I sometimes hear outsiders complain about small town living — how everyone knows their business. Well, in the first place,

JIM HAMILTON
JHAMILTON000@CENTURYTEL.NET

"Everyone" doesn't, and mostly we don't care. We just want to get to know them.

As for me, I've written so much about me and my family in this newspaper column over the past four decades, I don't reckon I've left too many questions unanswered. But, I know everyone wouldn't be comfortable with their picture and opinions out there week after week. I can respect that.

But, we're all "out there" anyway, if we have public job, go to church or school, or belong to any sort of club. And, isn't it nice when folks do know you?

I've lived where they didn't, and I like it better here. I find comfort in familiar names and faces behind the counter in the drug store, in the checkout lane at Wal Mart and the grocery store, or in the local tire shop or eatery.

It doesn't matter if it's the mayor or a guy who fixes potholes in the streets, it's good to have friends in everyone we meet. It's a comfort to live in the country or a small town. Every one of us needs a britches leg straightened out now and then, or something much more serious attended to.

Isn't it a comfort neighbors seem to come out of the woodwork when we do?

Only in a small town, or anywhere that feels like one.

Aquatic Invasive Plants

It's the time of year when boating activities on area lakes swing into high gear, which means it's a great time to remind everyone of a plant that's a major threat to area waterways.

Hydrilla isn't what most people think of when they think of taking their boat out to the lake, but this aquatic invasive plant is definitely on the minds of aquatic biologists, anglers and other people who care about the great fishing and water resources we have in Missouri. As long as hydrilla is being found in Missouri, people will be hearing about hydrilla each year. And, unfortunately, hydrilla is still being found in Missouri.

Hydrilla (Hydrilla verticillata) is native to Asia and was first seen in the United States in the 1950s. It is thought to have come here via the aquarium trade. It is currently found in 29 states, including Missouri. A mature hydrilla plant has green leaves up to five millimeters wide and 10-20 millimeters long. Leaves grow in whorls (a circular arrangement) with five leaves per whorl being the most common look. Leaves have a reddish mid-rib with small spines on the underneath side. The leaves also have finely serrated edges which distinguish them from look-alike plants like elodea.

The plant's growth rate is both impressive and problematic. Hydrilla plants can grow up to one inch per day during their peak growing periods and can double their biomass every two weeks. This rapid growth causes the plant to form dense vegetative mats on the water's surface.

These dense stands of vegetation can choke out native vegetation, alter predator-prey relationships among fish, decrease dissolved oxygen and increase water temperature by absorbing sunlight. All of these are factors that negatively impact aquatic life, fishing and recreational boating. In addition to causing problems in these areas, thick mats of hydrilla plants can clog intake structures at power generation and water supply facilities.

Hydrilla has multiple methods of reproduction and this can also be troublesome for aquatic habitats. One way is through fragmentation — small stem fragments can take root and become new plants. Hydrilla also reproduces by buds called turions. Still another method it uses is by tubers — parts of the plant that can remain viable in underwater sediment for several years.

These propagation methods

FRANCIS SKALICKY
MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

bring us to boating. This brings us back all the recreational activities that's going to take place at lakes in the months ahead. Hydrilla has not been found in any of the Show-Me State's large lakes thus far. To date, discoveries of the plant in this state have been in ponds and small impoundments. However, that doesn't mean that hydrilla fragments, turions or tubers aren't present at large reservoirs — they just haven't been found at those sites yet. Evidence from other states shows that one method for spreading the plant is by recreational boats that carry these plant parts from existing sites to new sites.

As a result, "clean, drain and dry" is a phrase all boat users need to remember. Following the parts of this phrase can prevent the spread of hydrilla and other exotic species, too. When leaving a body of water, remove any visible mud, plants, fish or other aquatic animals before transporting your equipment. Examine all parts of your equipment (motor, trailer, etc.) and remove any potential hitch-hiking species. Drain water from all equipment before transport.

Clean and dry everything. Do not release plants, fish or animals into a body of water unless they came out of that body of water. (This includes live bait.)

It should also be noted that those who like to keep fish should never dump the contents of an aquarium into a nearby stream, pond or lake. Even though hydrilla is classified as a noxious weed and is no longer sold commercially, it still shows up in aquariums on occasion. Regardless of whether hydrilla is in your fish bowl or not, dumping aquariums into streams or ponds is never a good idea because it's a way to introduce unwanted species into a watershed.

If you think you've seen hydrilla, e-mail pictures of the plant to Missouri Department of Conservation Fisheries Management Biologist Kara Tvedt at Kara.Tvedt@mdc.mo.gov or call 417-895-6881, ext. 1626. People can also get information about hydrilla and other invasive species at mdc.mo.gov.

Swinging for funds

By Amber Brand
amberb@marshfieldmail.com

Golf tournaments are a great way for organizations to raise funds and that is no exception for the Conway Schools Foundation. On Friday, June 10 the organization will be holding its 10th annual golf tournament.

"We use the funds raised at the golf tournament to support the Conway school district. We offer senior scholarships in the spring each year, we do teacher grants-we let teachers apply for funds for their classrooms. We support curriculum, activities, improving facilities and so on," explained Lance Vestal, Treasure for Conway Schools Foundation.

The deadline to register for the golf tournament is May 27, but golfers interested in participating past the deadline can contact Lance Vestal at lvestal@ fscb.com or by phone at 417-664-0884. In addition to the golf tournament, the foundation is also doing a whole hog and processing raffle. Tickets for the raffle can be purchased through Vestal and are one ticket for $5 or five tickets for $20.

If you are interested in supporting the Conway school foundation there are many ways to do that; from advertising during indoor sports games or leaving a financial gift through estate planning. "We are an avenue people can use to donate money," shared Vestal regarding what the School Foundation is and does. "We kind of hope that the foundation serves as a reminder to folks that if they have a passion for supporting their school or maybe their alma matter; if they want to use the school, activity, or a department as a beneficiary of their estate, that we can help them with that."

BUS DRIVERS

“Our high school secretary is running an afternoon route, our Ag teacher is running a morning route, our baseball coach drives the OTC bus in the morning and we have our bus mechanic driving the pickup OTC route,” explained Fordland Superintendent Chris Ford.

Logan-Rogersville has recruited parents to obtain their Commercial Drivers License (CDL), driving students to school functions, tournaments and games.

“We have a couple of cases where we have parents that are certified drivers,” shared Jennifer Katzin, Logan Rogersville Assistant Superintendent. “We have a father that drives to soccer games and tennis matches because his kids play soccer and tennis... We've also encouraged our coaches to get their CDL.”

To ensure the 2022-'23 school year does not face the same challenges, districts are recruiting drivers now, giving plenty of time to obtain a CDL.

“This is one of those niche positions for us and it's so unique in the hours. It can be difficult finding somebody that wants to do that. It takes a special skill set to be able to do it; both driving and working with students,” said Valentine. “We are always appreciative and amazed at what our community does for the district. We are hopeful that members of our community are willing to use that skill set and help the district. This is definitely an opportunity for them to help us out and succeed as a district in the upcoming school year.”

“I think people get intimidated by driving a large vehicle...but it is such an important job,” shared Katzin. “We have these plaques on some of our buses that says

Carrying precious cargo! Over 50% of pre-highschool students ride the bus according to the United States Department of Transportation.

‘you're carrying our most precious cargo’ and ultimately they are. You're not just driving a school bus, it's getting kids safely from point A to point B and it's a really important job. We want to make sure we have the best quality people.”

Select districts have offered paid CDL training, benefits, insurance and more. To become CDL certified in the state of Missouri, visit dor.mo.gov or contact your local district directly.

According to Cole, the investigation is still ongoing. The defendant showed authorities some evidence voluntarily and the sheriff's office currently has search warrants underway to gather further evidence in the case.

The probable cause statement said that Wallace admitted to having around 500 images of child pornography on his phone and also had videos which had been deleted prior to turning himself in. The defendant stated that he knew the people in those images were underage (13-17 years old) and it was illegal to possess them.

“Normally you would think somebody who was in trouble would think, oh, I better delete that. I'm going to get rid of it,” Cole explained. “It's actually the opposite. They just think they're going to hide it better. You can't hide anything on a phone... we're going to find it.”

Wallace would create fake profiles on apps such as KIK, Snapchat, Reddit and Discord to talk to and receive photos and videos of children. He would pose as a 32-year-old woman to acquire the images, which he would then use for personal gratification and forward to a group on KIK. He said he did this on at least 50 occasions. He also admitted that he is attracted to children, has a problem and needs help.

Wallace was arrested the day he confessed to the crimes and posted a $50,000 surety bond on Wednesday, May 11. His initial appearance was held on that date and his next appearance in front of Judge Replogle will be at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, July 19.

To fight this epidemic, the Webster County Health Unit is taking the battle to medicine cabinets: campaigning against the misuse of prescription drugs. Hanging on to old prescriptions or having easily accessible medications can result in drug abuse, addiction or even death. Studies by the Missouri Department of Health show that nearly 20% of students (6-12 grade) state it is “Very” or “sort of easy” to get prescription drugs that have not been prescribed to them.

The Health Unit recently partnered with the Community Partnership of the Ozarks and received additional drug prevention funding delegated to a cal coalition: the Webster County Comm'UNITY'. Louise Bigley, Webster County Health Unit's Public Health Nurse, states that the Health Unit is working hard to implement three drug-fighting objectives throughout the community. The first objective is working with local law enforcement and community members to place more permanent disposal boxes or drug drop boxes throughout the county.

“We've recently placed a permanent disposal box in both the Seymour police department and in the Fordland Police Department,” explained Bigley. “That actually increases the number of permanent disposal boxes. There's one at the Rogersville pharmacy, and two here at the Webster County Sheriff's Office. This improves access for our community members, so they don't have to drive 20 miles back and forth to dispose of their old medications. In addition to that we've been able to provide our law enforcement... with some disposable pouches.”

The disposal pouches are a new tool that allows for safe at-home disposal and are available to the public through various pharmacies, police stations and at the Health Unit. The packets dissolve leftover pills, patches and liquids neutralizing the substance. The pouches are biodegradable and also meet EPA guidelines. The Health Unit does not recommend flushing unused or old medications down the toilet or holding on to it for safekeeping.

“We do know that people often will flush medications because it's now out of their presence, but it moves into our waterways. That's not always good for the environment. If we can look at a way of disposing of them that's healthier for the environment and secures that so that no one can get to it,” stated Bigley. “Sometimes it is a double edged sword when someone gets ahold of medicine that's really old. Not only is it bad for them because it's not good to take other people's medicine, but it's bad because the medicine breaks-down and changes over time. It can really cause some damage.”

The second objective is educating and empowering community leaders to be a resource to the public.

“We reached out to community partners, law enforcement and trusted leaders who could potentially have a conversation about the proper handling of prescription medication:

pharmacists, veterinarian, dentist or funeral home directors,” explained Bigley. “We have even been able to provide them with disposable pouches or alert them to the permanent disposal boxes in their area.”

In addition to those two efforts, the Health Unit's third objective is working to keep the community healthy and provide educational resources throughout the county.

“We're trying to just improve the community; the community's health and reduce misuse. We know that youth sometimes like to experiment and sometimes they can make a poor choice by getting into someone's medication. If that leftover or old medication is just laying around, we can remove it from the environment and properly dispose of it,” explained Bigley. “Then it's less of a temptation or something for them to experiment with. Youth and adults alike, can be facing a mental health crisis and if something is available-like old medication- they may turn to it at a weak moment. They may make a decision that they may not recover from. If we can remove those items and provide a safer environment then it's just healthier for our county as a whole. That's ultimately what we're working on, improving the community's health and reducing the availability of old medications.”

For more information about the proper disposal of prescription medications or need access to the disposal pouches, contact the Webster County Health Unit at 417-859-2532 or visit webstercohealth.com.

Black Oak

By Sammy Massie

All 4 furnaces on heat May 22, Wow, 47 degrees for a low, only God knows what tomorrow holds. Opening song was "Jesus Saves" with Norma leading prayer. Today's adult lesson was from Genesis 45:1-28 titled "A Family Reunion".

Lesson Objectives 1. To see how all things did work out for good in the life of Joseph. 2. To renew our faith in God's providential care for us. 3. To walk the path of faith today, following my Lord. When the worship hour started "Happy Birthday" was sung to Herald Lee Dill. The prayer request was read for Jerry cousins' family in KC, Tammy Love's G-son Oliver, Mike and Becky Letterman, Landon & Coral's other granddad, Kaylene Cardwell family, Terry Compton's grandpa's family, Ruby Cash, Norma Wilhite and congratulations to Jamie Farr Davy's with a new baby, Herald lifted these up in prayer. Specials were by Jeremy with "When Jesus Passes By", Brent and Joni with "The Old Cross Road", Tina & Bro. Bill with "Sailing Toward Home", Wade with Jeremy with "I Feel Like Traveling On" and Herald Lee with a reading titled "The Trouble Tree". The message was titled for Ascension Day Thursday "Christ Ascended to the Right Hand of God for Us" from Luke 24:44-53, Mark 16:19 & 20 and Acts 1:2-5 & 9-12. Crossroads EMC

By Lacey Cantrell

Crossroads EMC wants you to come worship with us! "And Samson called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord God, remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes."—Judges 16:28

In spite of Samson's past, God still answered his prayer and destroyed the pagan temple. One of the effects of sin in our lives is to keep us from feeling like praying. But perfect moral behavior is not a condition for prayer. Don't let guilt feelings over sin keep you from your only means of restoration. No matter how long you have been away from God, He is ready to hear from you and restore you. Every situation can be salvaged if you are willing to turn again to Him. God Bless

Excitement exhaled from

Pastor Gary Dedmon, leaving the congregation in complete silence. Gary explored the amazing story of Moses and how his ways pertain to us today. Moses thought he had escaped his past by moving on. God had plans for Moses before he was borned just as with us. We certainly can't hide from God and He knows everything we do. Gary traveled through several Chapters and verses of Exodus. The points made clear was the fact Moses had started a new life and didn't exactly want to do what God wanted. How many times do we put our lives first without involving God? Has God ever told you to do something and it doesn't fit into your daily routine? How many times have you put a fake smile on when you go to Church acting like everything is fine? No it isn't! Admit you've had a terrible week at some point in question. The altar of the Church is to invite you to come releasing all that built up pressure. Uniting in fellowship and prayer shows us that we are not by ourselves. Testimonies of truth and honesty is a freedom that God gives us to grow in our Christian walk. The evil one tries to deter our thoughts hoping we'll fall short of our glory. Do we really know who God is and all that He can do for us? Don't get tangled up in a mess, surrender when God calls you. God Bless.

Elkland Independent Methodist Church

By Joyce Inman

It was so nice to see the fields all green and in bloom on the way to church on Sunday morning. Pastor Nicholas Inman gave the welcome and Butch Alcorn the announcements. Our acolytes were the grandchildren of Mike and Lynn Diehl. Justin Newberry opened in prayer. Howard McDaniel taught the Adult Sunday School class. Happy Birthday was sung to Kevin Lazarou.

Missy Crank served as our morning greeter. Pastor Inman led the song service with Ella Lewis at the piano, Tom Robinson on the guitar and Kevin Smith on the bass. Special music was provided by Gary Brannaman.

Thank you to Perry White and Nick Logan for taking care of the church yard. It looked great! Also, thank you to the Evelyn Hampton Garden Club for working in the church flower beds. They added lilies to our memorial plantings in memory of Kay Rankin, Tim Slavens and Brian Showers.

Our morning ushers were Perry White, Butch Alcorn (assisted by Jackson Inman), Howard McDaniel and Nick Logan. Justin Newberry received the offering with the assistance of little Ava Lee (his daughter).

Pastor Inman preached from Psalm 51 about David and his prayer to the Lord. Ella played the altar call and several gathered for prayer there.

After reading the prayer list, Tom Robinson dismissed the service in prayer and we all departed to serve.

Sixth Sunday of Easter Acts 15:1-2, 22-29, Psalm 67:2-3, 5, 6, 8; Revelation 21:10-14, 22-23; St. John 14:23-29

HOW BRIGHT IS YOUR LIGHT??? The Book Of Revelation shares with us today, "The city had no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the Glory of God gave it light, and its lamp was the Lamb". As I (Deacon Mark Kiblinger) reflect on Jesus being the Light of the World, the light of my life, and the light that gives meaning to our lives, I could not help but hearken back to Easter Vigil lighting of the Paschal Candle. From it came the subsequent illumination of the church as our individual candles were lit from it...This illumination...represents for each of us the light we are to be in our family, our workplace, and in our environment.

How can I better bring Christ's light and life into the world?...One answer lies in today's Gospel reading, "The Advocate...whom the Father will send in my name will teach you everything." All too often we do not realize the Holy Spirit's action in our lives. By virtue of our Baptism and Confirmation, we must embrace the gifts and fruits the Spirit has graciously given to us..."Are these things happening in your life?" Am I a person living the virtues of love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control?

Living these fruits allows Christ's light to shine from us into the world which drives out the darkness...We become a force for good and are willing to confront that which is wrong. We learn how to find the common ground when differences are present. On this 6th Sunday of Easter, the Good News of our Scriptures compels us to look interiorly and make an honest evaluation...We must do as Jesus asks each of us to do...to be a light. "You are the light of the world...your light must shine before others." (MT 5:14,16).

Immanuel Lutheran Church

By Diane Whitwer

There must have been too much graduation news as my items have not been in the paper for a couple of weeks. Congratulations to all those graduates. It is an achievement you will never regret.

Meanwhile, life remains busy in Rader with church cleaning at Immanuel and cleaning of the Rader cemetery. The teens had a fantastic fish fry and they are looking forward to a trip to Texas for the national convention next month. Eureka had the Independence quartet last week Saturday and they had a big fish fry afterward.

VBS in Rader will be scheduled for July 17 to 20. All children in the area are invited to attend. More on that closer to registration time.

Prayers for healing are requested for Gene Stanley, Barbara Medlock, Lewis Rader, Melissa Storie and Betty and Doyle Stokes.

The Helping Hand Club had their business meeting on Wednesday with Nina Walke as hostess. There were 13 members present. The gals were excited about a wedding invitation from Keltin Comfort. It sounded like a great excuse for us all to take a trip to Wasilla, AK, but our Treasurer said NO! Donations were made to the Conway Sr. Center and the Niangua Food Pantry. Midge Lewellyn won the door prize and Patsy Boyd will be Hostess for June.

In spite of all the rain, count your blessings!

Sunday morning worship began after Addison and Reed rang the bell. Happy Birthday was sung to Judy Young.

Addison Shelton and Ella McIntosh graduated kindergarten last week and Reed Smith graduated Pre-school. We sang Happy Graduation to them.

Announcements included Kid's Fishing Day on Saturday, June 4. It is a free event that is fun for all. The kids receive a free rod and reel, while supplies last. At noon there is a free fish fry. There are other treats throughout the day. Make plans to bring your kids, or grandkids and have a great time. It is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 260 Twin Oaks Lane, Marshfield. (Past Wal-Mart on 38 hwy.)

Miracles of Jesus Vacation Bible School will be June 7 - 10. Supper is served at 5:30 p.m. Classes start at 6. Fun and learning for all ages.

Following announcements and prayer requests, we had a special time of prayer for Bob and Vicki Fryman. Bob is having health problems and Vicki is recovering from surgery.

I led the song service accompanied by John Anderson on the guitar. Ushers for the offering were Jerry Dry and Derrick Young. Gary led in prayer. Special music was by Derrick Young.

Our guest speaker was Jamie Lansdown. He used James 3 as his text and titled the message, "The dangers of living with a double standard."

He talked about our words. Are they building up or tearing down? Our guest speaker for this Sunday will be Jerry Palmer. Birthday wishes go out this week to Judy Young on May 28. Get well wishes go out to Bob and Vicki Fryman. I also want to send get well wishes to my aunt, Bobbie Sue Day. She had surgery on Tuesday.

The weather sure can change fast. But that is nothing compared to how fast Jesus will return. The Bible says "in the blink of an eye." Be ready, and pray for those who aren't.

Have a good week and a safe Memorial Day weekend.

Peace Lutheran

Church

By Pastor Edwin Lehmann

In writing about heaven's city in Sunday's lesson, the Apostle John said, "I did not see a temple in the city, because the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are its temple" (Revelation 21:22). It was a shout of surprise: "No temple? That can't be!"

The temple was the place where the Lord came to meet his people and talk with them. They came to hear his Word and offered him their gifts. They enjoyed fellowship meals with him and were assured of his forgiveness and grace. It was all so special. So, the Psalmist wrote: "I was glad when they said to me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord'" (122:1).

Don't you feel that way about church? It's "God's House." There he comes to speak with you and promise you forgiveness and life in Christ. There you find peace in him, sing his praise, and pour out your heart in prayer. You can do that anywhere because Christ has made that possible. But isn't there something special about going into his House to do it?

John thought he missed that until he realized he was looking at God's people in heaven. Heaven doesn't need a temple. God and the Lamb who was sacrificed for sin are there. Why do you need a building when the Savior is visibly with you in all his glory? His presence turns the whole place into a temple, where he, not the sun or moon, enlightens your life. Awesome!

Pleasant Hill United Methodist Church

Micah 6:8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the LORD require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?

St. Paul Lutheran

By Joanne Roberts

Oh! What a wonderful day! We began with the congregation singing "I Am Trusting Thee, Lord Jesus" and ended with the choir singing "Go Now in Peace", a very emotional song.

Scriptures were Acts 11:1-18, Revelation 21:1-17 and John 16:12-22. You will probably want to read them for yourself.

Today was a very special day for two reasons. First, Keely Ry- anne Devoto was confirmed and took First Communion. We congratulate her on this important commitment in her life.

We also celebrated graduation of eight youth with ties to our congregation. As our congregation is our spiritual family, we need to celebrate each other's joys as well as share each other's concerns and sorrows.

Our eight youth are, in order of graduation type:

United States Air Force pilot;

Upper Room Article

By Brother Bob Holden

There are many people, young and old alike, who have hearing problems, including selective hearing! There is someone out there right now saying, "what did he say?" Actually, that could be me! Be thankful for the gift of hearing, it should be one of those things to be grateful for each day. That prayer could be something like this: God, thank you for letting me hear the birds chirping and singing in the trees. Thank you for letting me hear the train as it roars down the tracks, and thank you for Your soft, sweet voice that whispers in my ear. God is so good, Amen?

Good communication is 80% listening and 20% speaking. The ability to hear is obviously extremely important to communicate with others. Also extremely important is our understanding of what is being said. In Jesus' conflict with the Jews and Pharisees, He said: "If God were you Father, you would love Me, for I proceeded forth and came from God; nor have I come of Myself, but He sent Me. Why do you not understand My speech? Because you are not able to listen to My word." John 8:42-43.

In closing, rest assured God is listening. Even when we think He doesn't hear us, God is listening and hears. He understands our speech and acts according to His good will. And when God speaks to us, we need to listen, hear and understand His words with our heart, mind and soul. Then we can respond and act accordingly. "But be doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man observing his natural face in a mirror; for he observes himself, goes away, and immediately forgets what kind of man he was." James 1:22-24. Listen for His still, small voice this week, and remember the 80/20 rule of good communication. Blessings to all.
