

Working in the Pentagon: The Seat of Our Nation's Military Power

Join Fountain Hills resident Darla Roberts as she discusses the 6.5 years she worked in the Pentagon, the center of the world's most powerful military. Darla spent a three-year assignment of her US Air Force military career in the Pentagon. She later spent another 3.5 years in the Pentagon as a civilian Department of Defense contractor. Darla worked there before the 9/11 attacks as a military member, then again after the 9/11 attacks. She worked in the section of the Pentagon that was destroyed on 9/11 and then rebuilt in record time. Join Darla for a look at the history of the building itself, how it changed after 9/11, and a first-hand look at what the day-to-day work life is really like in the seat of our Nation's military power.
